Dear Parents and Carers

Pre Study Leave

As the exams approach it is important that students study in the right environment for them. This being said, the decision has been made that Year 13 students will be entitled to ‘Pre Study Leave’.

This simply means that between Monday 29 April and Leavers Day on 17 May students will be able to make a decision where to study during their independent study periods. They can continue to use the Silent or Group study but may also now study from home if they wish.

This should in no way impact their lesson attendance and they will be expected to continue to attend these lessons until 17 May, but allows them the flexibility to choose where they revise from as independent learners. There will be a small handful of students who will not be afforded this privilege based on their attendance, progress and attitude over the last two years, this is a very small number of students.

Yours sincerely
